Toro Energy appoints new Chairman

Australian uranium developer, Toro Energy Limited (ASX: "TOE") is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr Tim Netscher as a Non-Executive Director and Chairman Elect of the Board of Directors effective 1 November 2015.

Mr Netscher replaces Fiona Harris who has elected to retire, effective immediately, from the Board as a Non-Executive Director for personal reasons.

Mr Netscher is a highly respected professional director with substantial experience in the mineral resources sector. He is currently Non-Executive Chairman of St Barbara Limited, and a Non-Executive Director of Western Areas Limited, Gold Road Resources Limited and the unlisted Aquila Resources Limited. Between 2010 and 2013, Mr Netscher was Managing Director and CEO of Gindalbie Metals Limited. Mr Netscher is also currently the Non-Executive Chairman of Deep Yellow Limited, a Namibian-focused uranium company, a position from which he intends resigning. A chemical engineer by background, he has a distinguished career as an international mining executive with extensive hands-on operational and project development experience and expertise in senior executive management roles.

Mr Netscher's CV and remuneration details are attached in Appendix I and Appendix II.

"The Board is delighted to welcome Tim Netscher to Toro," Managing Director Dr Vanessa Guthrie said today. "Tim's outstanding experience as a mining executive on large capital projects enhances the skill set needed to deliver Toro's strategy to become the leading mid-tier Australian uranium company through the financing and construction of the Wiluna Project."

"At the same time, we recognise the difficult circumstances that have faced our retiring Chairman, Fiona Harris recently, and appreciate her commitment to Toro during what has been a personally challenging time," Dr Guthrie said. "We wish Fiona all the best in the coming months."

Toro had previously advised the market that Mega Uranium had agreed it was appropriate that it hold only one nominee Director position on the Toro Board, consistent with rebalancing Director representations to reflect Toro's major shareholdings. With the change in circumstances due to Ms Harris leave of absence Mega offered to remain with two directors to ensure a smooth operation of the Board during her absence and will continue to do so during the transition period for the new chairman.

These Board changes consolidate the Board renewal process and follow Toro Energy's success last year refinancing the company – initiatives which have positioned Toro financially for at least the next three years.
